Hugo Hughes is an exciting batting all-rounder playing for the famous St Kilda Cricket Club in Melbourne, Australia.

Born in London, the dual Passport holder moved to Australia as a youngster and has developed his trade at the prestigious Melbourne Grammar School. Last summer (2021/22), he racked up 4 centuries and, in recent years, has vice-skipped the first team.

Alongside his school commitments (just finished exams), he has played for St Kilda in the Victorian Premier Competition. Playing for the famous club whose notable alumni can include the likes of Marcus Harris, Peter Handscomb, Rob Quiney, Michael Beer, and the legend himself, Shane Warne, the talented batting all-rounder has impressed, averaging over 100 in the lower grades and is now pushing for 2nd Grade inclusion.

The schoolboy stand-out, who has represented St Kilda through the age-groups, and was involved with the Victorian U15 squad, is now eager to progress through the club ranks.

In a view toward his development, Hughes returned to the UK last summer and enjoyed a productive season in London for Shepherds Bush. Given his success, he is now keen to return for another stint in 2024.
