At just 18 years old, Ahmad Hassan is already turning heads in the cricketing world. A genuine all-rounder with top-order batting quality and sharp seam bowling, Ahmad is widely regarded as one of the most exciting young talents in world cricket today.

His rise has been swift, and for good reason. Representing Pakistan Under-19s at the 2024 ICC U19 World Cup, Ahmad showcased his immense potential on the global stage. He played a vital role in helping Pakistan reach the semi-finals, where they narrowly lost a thriller to Australia. His standout performance came against Ireland, where he struck a composed 57 with the bat and followed it up with 2 for 37 from 8 overs – a performance that perfectly captured his all-round pedigree.

Those who've seen him up close speak highly of not just his ability, but his temperament and work ethic. He comes highly recommended by seasoned UK professional Saad Khan, who describes him as a rare talent with all the tools to excel overseas. It's no surprise that Ahmad is already knocking on the door of senior cricket, having featured in the Champions Cup with the Sialkot Stallions and been involved in red-ball four-day squads at domestic level in Pakistan.

Ahmad's game is well-rounded and mature beyond his years. With the bat, he brings a calm, technically sound presence in the top order, capable of building innings or shifting gears when required. With the ball, his seamers offer control, movement, and a knack for picking up key wickets. He's the kind of cricketer who makes things happen – the kind of player every club wants in their ranks.

Now setting his sights on a UK club stint in 2026, Ahmad is eager to continue his development in foreign conditions and take on new challenges. While still early in his journey, his ceiling is incredibly high, and he's a player who could not only thrive in league cricket but also add real value on and off the field – as a performer, teammate, and role model for younger players.

For any club seeking a dynamic, talented, and humble young professional with international experience and huge upside, Ahmad Hassan is one to watch. He may still be a teenager, but his game – and his future – is already on an elite trajectory.

Ahmad is now set to head overseas for his first season after signing with Tavistock Cricket Club for their 2026 Devon Cricket League campaign.
