Ali Ahmad Nasar is a talented young cricketer emerging as one of Afghanistan’s promising wicketkeeper-batsmen. With a natural passion for the game, he has steadily worked his way up through the ranks, earning recognition for his technical skill and composure as a right-handed top-order batsman, as well as his agility and sharp reflexes behind the stumps.

His rise began with selection for Afghanistan’s Under-19 team, where he gained valuable international experience. In 2023, Ali represented Afghanistan in the Under-19 Tri-Series against Bangladesh and Sri Lanka, showcasing his ability to perform against tough opposition. His role as both a dependable batsman and reliable wicketkeeper underlined his value to the team.

The following year, Ali took another important step by featuring in the 2024 Under-19 Cricket World Cup. Battling some of the best young talent globally, he provided crucial starts at the top of the order, further establishing his reputation as a rising star in Afghan cricket.

Domestically, Ali has been a consistent presence in Afghanistan’s competitive leagues. In 2024, he played for the Shamshad team in the Kabul League, impressing with his solid batting technique and sharp wicketkeeping. He also featured for the Band-e-Amir Dragons in the Shpageeza Cricket League, the nation’s premier T20 tournament, where he demonstrated adaptability to the fast-paced demands of the shortest format.

Alongside his limited-overs credentials, Ali has gained valuable experience in the longer format, having played eight first-class matches and maintaining a respectable batting average of 24.71. His time in first-class cricket has helped him develop patience and focus, key qualities for a top-order batsman.

With a blend of technical skill, commitment, and a calm temperament, Ali Ahmad Nasar continues to build a promising career. His dedication and growing experience suggest he could become an important figure for Afghanistan's cricketing future, both behind the stumps and with the bat.
