Finn Lutton is an exciting quick bowler from Northern Ireland.

Lutton is a front line right arm seamer who bowls with good pace and variation. The quick recently represented Ireland 19s at the ICC World Cup in South Africa, picking up wickets against India and Zimbabwe.

At Club level Lutton has been playing Premier League cricket since the age of 15, where he represents Civil Service Cricket Club in Northern Ireland. The seamer was part of the Northern Knights squad that won the 50 over and t20 inter provincial series 2023 and is expected to be part of the set up again this summer. Lutton has been on the Ireland Pathway system for a number of years, and in recent times part of the High Performance Academy.

Lutton is not just a talented player, the impressive quick is also a keen and qualified coach and keen to be part of a club's junior coaching structure whilst overseas. The youngster certainly ticks a lot of boxes and is keen to impress this summer before playing in Australia.

No doubt a more than handy pick up for the coming season for any club wanting an exciting quick who can whack it down the order.
