Jacob Emler is a left-arm seam-bowling all-rounder from London.

For several years, Jacob developed his game with Dulwich Cricket Club in the highly competitive Surrey Championship, widely regarded as one of the strongest club competitions in the country. During the 2025 season, he made appearances across both the First and Second XI and claimed 25 wickets across all competitions, continuing to establish himself as a reliable seam option.

Jacob prides himself on his ability to swing the new ball and is constantly working to refine and develop his craft. With the bat, he offers valuable lower-order resistance and has the capability to clear the ropes late in an innings, adding important runs in pressure situations.

Ahead of the 2026 season, Emler has made the move to Bristol Cricket Club in the West of England Premier League, allowing him greater playing opportunities alongside his university commitments in the city.

Set to complete his studies this summer, Jacob is now targeting a season Down Under to broaden his horizons and gain valuable experience in overseas conditions. He is eager to fully immerse himself in his host club's culture, contributing both on and off the field, and is keen to support within a club's coaching structure to help mentor younger players.

A committed and developing left-arm seam-bowling all-rounder, Jacob Emler would be a strong addition for any club seeking depth and versatility ahead of the upcoming season.
