Jaime Cooper is a talented young English cricketer with a bright future ahead. As a skilled right-arm medium-pace bowler who specializes in away swing, she excels in the art of bowling and brings her passion for fielding to every game. Jaime enjoys playing cricket alongside both men and women, thriving in diverse team environments.

Her cricketing journey has already seen her represent her county with pride, and she continues to hone her skills, particularly in batting, as she aims to become an all-rounder. Jaime's dedication to the sport has also taken her to the Caribbean, where she had the privilege of playing for her school, which is ranked among the top 25 state schools in the country. Her love for cricket and determination to succeed are evident in all she does, making her a rising star to watch.

Jaime Cooper's cricketing journey is nothing short of remarkable, considering she has only been playing for a few years. Despite this, she has already completed three back-to-back seasons as the opening bowler for SLHC, a women's Southern Premier League side in England. Across both shorter and longer formats, Jaime has taken hundreds of wickets, showcasing her skill and consistency. Even when batting lower down the order, she has managed to score several half-centuries, demonstrating her growing all-round capabilities.

Jaime has been a proud member of the Kent U18 squad for two seasons (soon to be three) and was recognized as Bowler of the Year for her exceptional performances. She made her debut for Kent's women's senior side last summer, where she impressed with five wickets across two T20 matches, along with a solid contribution with the bat. Her best bowling figures of 5-23 off 10 overs highlight her ability to deliver game-changing performances. Jaime's efforts have earned her multiple awards across different clubs, further reflecting her skill, determination, and positive attitude.

As one of the few players in England selected for the Diploma in Sporting Excellence, Jaime is continuously expanding her cricketing experiences while balancing her academic studies. Looking ahead, she plans to take a gap year to travel Down Under, immersing herself in the game she loves, before pursuing a degree in sports media and continuing to play sport at university.

Jaime's athletic abilities extend beyond cricket—she is also an accomplished hockey, rugby, and netball player, showcasing her versatility and passion for sport. With her dedication and drive, she is poised to achieve great success both on and off the field.
