James Crombie (23) is a top-order batter from Kent, United Kingdom.

Currently representing Sevenoaks Vine Cricket Club in the Kent Cricket League, James has developed into a technically accomplished batter who has featured across the club's Second and Third XI's.

Alongside his club commitments, James has spent the past few years studying at the University of Southampton, where he represented the University's First XI in the highly competitive BUCS competition. Balancing his studies with university and club cricket has helped shape him into the cricketer he is today.

James has built his game around a strong technical foundation and the ability to construct long, match-defining innings. Comfortable occupying the crease, he rotates the strike effectively, shows patience when required, and has the ability to accelerate the scoring rate to suit the demands of the match. In addition to his batting, he offers useful right-arm medium pace and can also fulfil wicketkeeping duties if required, providing valuable versatility to any squad.

In recent seasons, James has focused on establishing himself as a specialist top-order batter. During the 2025 campaign, he averaged 35 in league cricket for Sevenoaks Vine, registering three half-centuries before producing a superb unbeaten 104 in the final match of the season to help secure the club's league status.

His form has continued into the current season. Alongside his appearances for Sevenoaks Vine, James has featured for Iden Cricket Club in the Sussex Cricket League, scoring 204 runs in three matches at an outstanding average of 102. He has also enjoyed remarkable success in Sunday cricket for Bodiam Cricket Club, averaging 149 in 2024 and 98 in 2023, further highlighting his consistency and ability to produce significant scores.

Now eager to experience cricket in the Southern Hemisphere, James is seeking his first overseas opportunity, where he hopes to continue developing his game while embracing the culture and community of his chosen club both on and off the field.
