Kamsha Yangfo is a seasoned wicket-keeper batter who has quietly built an impressive domestic career with Arunachal Pradesh. A late bloomer by Indian cricket standards, he made his debut during the 2018/19 season and has since become a reliable and respected figure within the team setup.

Over the years, Yangfo has delivered consistent performances in both the Ranji Trophy and the Vijay Hazare Trophy, where his assured glovework and calm presence with the bat have made him a mainstay in the side. The 2022/23 season marked a high point in his career—particularly in the one-day format—where he produced a string of classy half-centuries and caught the attention of selectors. His form was rewarded with selection for the North East Zone squad in the prestigious Deodhar Trophy in July 2023, underlining his growing influence on the domestic stage.

Now with over 70 matches across formats to his name, Yangfo brings a wealth of experience and a measured, composed approach to the game. As he looks to broaden his horizons, he's setting his sights on a maiden overseas stint and is keen to test himself in UK club cricket in 2026. With his steady hands behind the stumps, dependable batting, and leadership qualities, Yangfo represents a valuable overseas option for clubs seeking a proven performer.
