Katrina Mairs is an accomplished batting all-rounder from Wellington, New Zealand.

Born in Wellington and holding a British passport, Katrina currently represents Wellington Collegians Cricket Club in the Cricket Wellington Women's Premier competition, where she has established herself as a key performer and has captained the side for the past two seasons.

Primarily a top-order batter, Katrina prides herself on her ability to contribute consistently with the bat, while her off-spin provides an additional bowling option capable of influencing matches across different phases of an innings. Her genuine all-round capabilities, combined with her competitive nature and strong understanding of the game, make her a valuable asset in any team environment.

Katrina enjoyed a particularly memorable moment during the 2025/26 season, when she was awarded the prestigious Sam Platt Cup for Cricket Wellington's Best Overall Performance in Women's Cricket. The accolade followed an outstanding individual display in which she scored 80 runs, claimed 5/29 with the ball and took two catches, showcasing her ability to influence a match across all three disciplines.

Her performances have also earned recognition beyond club level, with Katrina selected to represent both the Wellington District XI and Wellington A. These representative honours highlight her standing within the region and demonstrate her ability to compete against quality opposition as she continues to develop her game.

Alongside her playing achievements, Katrina brings considerable leadership qualities, having captained Wellington Collegians for the past two seasons. A passionate and enthusiastic cricketer, she prides herself on her positive attitude, strong work ethic and team-first mentality, leading by example and contributing to an enjoyable and competitive team environment.

Katrina is also no stranger to English club cricket, having featured in a handful of matches for Brentham Cricket Club during the 2026 UK season while travelling throughout Europe. Although her appearances were limited, the experience provided a valuable introduction to English conditions and further strengthened her desire to return for a full campaign.

Having enjoyed her brief experience of cricket in the Northern Hemisphere, Katrina is now eager to return to the UK for the 2027 season, where she hopes to challenge herself in a new environment, continue developing her all-round game and gain further experience alongside different teammates and coaches.

Importantly, Katrina is keen to fully immerse herself in her chosen club's culture both on and off the field, embracing the competitive and social aspects of English club cricket while making a meaningful contribution to the wider women's cricket programme.

A player we anticipate will attract significant interest from women's cricket programmes across the UK, particularly given her impressive all-round credentials, representative experience and attractive British passport status.
