Kevin Crowie is a highly driven cricketer playing first-class cricket for North West in South Africa.

A genuine quick and capable lower-order batter, Crowie made his first-class debut in March 2018 – 8 years after representing Gauteng Under-19s at Coke Week.

Crowie was an incredibly promising junior cricketer who seemed destined for professional honours, especially after a strong Coke week in November 2010. However, at 21, he suffered a serious leg injury which hampered his progression.

After a few years' hiatus, he returned and his incredible work ethic and exploits at club level for Delfos Cricket Club, eventually culminated with his first-class debut against Border in March 2018 (taking figures of 2-17 and 3-38). He has subsequently gone on to play 5 first-class and 2 T20 matches for the Dragons.

Crowie, who is a qualified and enthusiastic coach, enjoyed a productive maiden UK stint in 2019 playing for Spring View taking 24 wickets at 19.08 in the Liverpool League.

Given the tall quick's success, Crowie is now eager to return to the UK for another stint in 2020.
