Lewis Boothroyd, a young batting all-rounder from Yorkshire, England.

Since the age of seven, Lewis has been developing his game at his home club, Hall Bower Cricket Club, competing in the Huddersfield Premier Cricket League. A true one-club man, he has become a staple in the Club's Second XI, where he plays a crucial role with both bat and ball. This summer he has showcased his potential with a highest score of 76, underlining his ability to anchor or accelerate an innings when required.

Eager to push himself further, Boothroyd is determined to break into Hall Bower's First XI over the next 12 months as he continues to refine his skills and strive to become the best cricketer he can be.

Now ready to broaden his horizons, Lewis is eyeing up a season in the Southern Hemisphere for 2025/26, where he is keen to experience cricket and life overseas while fully immersing himself in the culture of his new Club, both on and off the field.

At just eighteen years old, Boothroyd would no doubt be a handy addition for any Club looking to bring in a young, passionate, and talented self-financing cricketer with the ambition to develop and contribute at every opportunity.
