Loreen Tshuma is Zimbabwe’s frontline spinner, with quite the international record to match.

Since her Lady Chevron’s debut in T20 international cricket (August 2021) she has bagged 20 wickets at 13.45 in her 18 T20I matches. With a strike rate of a wicket every 16.2 balls, and an impressive economy rate of 4.98, it’s no wonder she’s Zimbabwe’s “go-to” spinner.

Combine her bowling figures with her batting ability in the middle order, particularly at domestic level, and you can see why she’s an integral member of the Lady Chevron’s squad.

Tshuma plays domestic cricket for Southern in the Regional competition, following her move from Tuskers last summer. She bats in the middle order for them and aspires to fill a genuine all-rounder role for the national side in due course.

Tshuma is a serious talent who is looking to embark on overseas opportunities moving forward. She has targeted both Franchise and UK club opportunities from 2024 onwards and is definitely a player to strongly consider.
