Monalisa Legodi is an exciting pace bowler currently playing for Fidelity Titans Women. She recently represented South Africa in the Proteas Under-19 World Cup, where the team finished as runners-up, making her a World Cup silver medalist.

A rising star, Monalisa's talent has been evident since she started playing for Northerns in 2019, and her game continues to grow impressively.

For the mid-season of 2024/2025, she has been performing exceptionally well, maintaining an economy rate of just four—an outstanding achievement for a pace bowler. Her excellence extends beyond domestic cricket; at the 2023 World Cup in Malaysia, she shone brightly, proving herself to be a rising star on the international stage.

During the recent World Cup, Monalisa was named Player of the Match once and was also recognized as the best bowler of a game for her outstanding performance. Beyond these individual highlights, she consistently delivered strong performances throughout the tournament.

The first half of the 2024/2025 domestic season saw Monalisa continue to impress. She remained committed to contributing to her team's success while ensuring her economy rate was well maintained.

She knows how to handle her cricketing responsibilities with a level of experience and maturity beyond her years. Time and again, she proves that cricket is not about age but about what a player can bring to the table.

The talented Fidelity youngster is now pushing for higher levels. Having finished school, she may look to join the South African Emerging squad, which would provide her with valuable experience and serve as a stepping stone toward the Proteas setup.

Given her recent success with the ball, Monalisa could make a strong case for selection in the Emerging team—especially if she continues her fine form.

For now, however, she remains focused on continuing her journey with the Fidelity Titans. We eagerly look forward to witnessing her cricketing growth in the future.

A rising star indeed!
