Muhammad Sarwar is a talented all-rounder currently making his mark in Pakistan's first-class cricket scene. With a well-rounded skill set, he contributes significantly both with the bat and ball, proving himself as a valuable asset to any side.

Batting primarily in the top and middle order, Sarwar has built a solid career with a first-class batting average just over 30, including three centuries and eight half-centuries, with a highest score of 148. His List A record is even more impressive, boasting an average of 35.52 and a top score of 119—an excellent feat considering his role mainly in the middle order.

While his bowling opportunities at the professional level have been somewhat limited—often used as a first or second change seamer—Sarwar's ability to swing the ball prodigiously makes him a genuine threat, particularly in conditions like those found in the UK. His best T20 bowling figures of 4/32 highlight his capability to make crucial breakthroughs and influence matches with the ball in hand.

Known for his versatility and team-first approach, Sarwar has earned a reputation for fulfilling multiple roles on the field, adapting as needed to meet his team's demands.

Now eager to take his talents overseas, Muhammad Sarwar is looking forward to his maiden professional stint abroad. Coming into the season in fine form, he represents an exciting opportunity for any club seeking a high-quality all-rounder with the potential to deliver match-winning performances.
