Runyararo Pasipanodya is an exciting young middle-order batter from Zimbabwe, already an established international at just 19 years old and continuing to push for further national honours.

A product of Zimbabwe's pathway system, Pasipanodya made her senior international debut at only 17, playing her first ODI against the USA in Harare in October 2024 — alongside fellow teenager Beloved Biza — before adding a T20I debut against Namibia the following month. She has since gone on to represent Zimbabwe in 11 ODIs and 8 T20Is, scoring 111 runs at 18.50 in the 50-over format, with a highest score of 33*.

Alongside her senior international appearances, Pasipanodya has represented Zimbabwe A Women and continues to develop through Zimbabwe's high-performance structures, featuring for the Zimbabwe Women High Performance XI in invitational cricket in Rwanda in mid-2026, where she showed good form with the bat. At domestic level, she plays for Eagles Women, having recorded a List A half-century (54) among her 231 runs in the format to date.

Still a teenager and with more than a decade of cricket ahead of her, Pasipanodya is a genuine pathway prospect currently pushing for a more established place in Zimbabwe's senior set-up.
