Seb Allison is a tall, skillful seam bowling all-rounder from South Africa.

The all-rounder is currently trialling with Kent CCC in pursuit of a professional contract. Over the past three seasons, he has made a strong impact in the North East Premier League for Felling Cricket Club and with Northumberland in the NCCA, developing into a reliable new-ball bowler with genuine bounce and carry.

Seb's height and pace make him a constant threat, and he's particularly effective at hitting the deck hard. His time in the UK has refined his control and seam movement, while also significantly improving his batting. A powerful middle-order hitter, he excels against spin and is comfortable taking on the short ball.

The South African who attended Durham University where he was the captain of the UCCE side has impressed at every level, and was the NEPL 'Player of the Year' in 2022 with 50 wickets and nearly 500 runs to his name.

With a strong work ethic and notoriously safe hands, Seb offers a valuable all-round package for any side.
