Sushant Modani is an Indian-born American opening batter who has represented the United States at full international level, bringing genuine international experience along with the versatility to fill a range of roles as team needs demand. Originally from Jalna, Maharashtra, he moved to the United States and was selected in USA Cricket's inaugural Minor League Cricket draft in 2021, joining the Houston Hurricanes before going on to earn a senior national call-up the same year.

Modani made his ODI debut for the United States against Papua New Guinea in September 2021, and his T20I debut against Ireland that December. He went on to play 34 ODIs, scoring 900 runs at an average of 26.47 including a century and six fifties, with a top score of 111, and added 93 runs in 5 T20Is at a strike rate of 136.76. His most recent international appearance came in an ODI against Scotland in Dallas in October 2024.

He remains an active and in-form presence in the domestic franchise system, currently playing for the MetroPlex Tracers in Minor League Cricket's 2026 season, where he sits fifth on the competition's run-scoring charts with 188 runs from five matches at an average of 62.67 and a strike rate of 149.21. With that form and his prior international pedigree, Modani is looking to showcase his full range at franchise level and put himself back in contention for a recall to the USA T20I and ODI setup.
