Tyler Annand is an exciting young seam-bowling all-rounder currently forging his path with the Central Stags in New Zealand's domestic system.

At just 21, Tyler has already represented the Stags on six occasions and is quickly establishing himself as a key contributor with the ball. Impressively, he has taken wickets in every innings he has bowled, underlining his natural ability as a genuine strike bowler and his consistency at domestic level.

His progression hasn't gone unnoticed. Following an excellent 12-18 months, Tyler has been selected for the New Zealand Development programme, further validating his potential and positioning him firmly on the radar of national selectors. With aspirations of one day representing New Zealand, he remains committed to broadening his experience and sharpening his skills.

Looking ahead to the 2026 season, Tyler is eager to continue that development in the UK. A keen and capable coach, he is determined to make a positive impact both on and off the field and fully immerse himself in his new club environment.

Highly recommended by New Zealand legend and CricX star Jesse Ryder, Tyler is expected to be a sought-after recruit for next summer, a genuine wicket-taking quick with the all-round skill set and professionalism to lead a club's bowling attack.
